Amuligo Copy Has Blood Howl But Don't Know What They Should Do About Her

AMULIGO, Dec. 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Amuligo police department has a blood howl but doesn't know what to do with it.

The dog, captured in the police station, picked up a place in front of the police station and howled.

Police officers, including Police Officer "O'Man," and other policemen before leaving that a feminine name would be more appropriate.

Quiet Graying Woman Who Inspired Classic Editorial Sits In Her Office And Tells Why Her Belief In Old Santa Claus Has Been Shaken; Misery Is Too Evident

BY SHERMAN MILLER, Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—A quiet, graying woman, who as a little girl in 1857 inspired the classic editorial in the old New York Sun "There's a Santa Claus" set today in her office in the heart of one of the city's busiest business districts.

Her name is Mrs. Edward Douglas, now 82 years old, and she lives at 100 West 11th St. in the New York City building in which she sold "There's a Santa Claus" in 1857.

"I was only one girl of my age," she said, "but I was so sure of my belief in Santa Claus that I had to write it. I was sure that there was a Santa Claus, and I was sure that he would bring me my presents."

She said that she had never seen Santa Claus, but she was sure that he existed. She said that she had never seen him, but she was sure that he existed.

Merry Christmas And A Happy New Year

Progress Seen At Gladewater

East Texas Oil Town Has New Residences, Paved Streets To Make This Christmas An Unusually Merry One

By The Associated Press

GLADWATER, Tex., Dec. 24.—Gladewater started the year without paved streets in the business section, but in less than a month approximately 40 blocks have been paved and covered in merry snow will be paved within the next 30 to 40 days, City Engineer Jack Brantley said.

Until the first of this year there was a feeling of uncertainty in this city of 10,000 population that stores and homes would be in danger of being damaged by the winter's snowdrifts as well as a street paving program that was abandoned early with the completion of concrete pavement on Main street.

Many New Home Builders

During the year more than 100 new residences have been built, including several apartment houses for desirable living quarters and more business buildings.

Many families that moved away last year when the city cut water supply are returning and putting up their new homes in the business section, are putting back and putting up their new homes in the business section, are putting back and putting up their new homes in the business section.
